

YOUR CAREER PATH

in regional Western Australia

Join a regional team at Western Australia's Parks and Wildlife Service and experience hands-on conservation work, helping to protect native plants, animals, and the local community.

The Parks and Wildlife Service at the Department of Biodiversity, Conservation and Attractions manages some of Western Australia's most iconic locations and tourism attractions, national and marine parks, and World Heritage areas.

As a graduate officer working within the Regional and Fire Management Services Division, you'll experience living and working in a regional location as part of the department's front-line delivery arm. Opportunities exist across the State including in Albany, Broome, Bunbury, Geraldton, Kalgoorlie, Karratha, Manjimup and Narrogin.

WHY CHOOSE US?

- Make a difference: Our work is diverse, exciting, and meaningful.
- Manage the natural environment: Work to conserve Western Australia's unique plants and animals.
- Diverse work: Enjoy regular field work outdoors, where every day offers a new adventure.
- Nature-based tourism focus: Be part of initiatives that promote sustainable practices and eco-tourism.
- Joint management: Work in partnership with Traditional Owners in land and marine management.
- Fire management: Learn about fire in the natural environment including prescribed burning and bushfire response.
- Become part of a team: We will mentor and support you as you gain on-the-job experience, while staying connected with fellow graduates.
- Be part of a community: Build on existing relationships with our partners, stakeholders and local communities.
